

MODELING MULTIDIMENSIONAL DATA SOURCES

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A facility for processing a relational database query is described. The facility receives the relational database query, and constructs a multidimensional database query based on the received relational database query. The facility submits the constructed multidimensional database query for execution against a multidimensional data source.